Ripple Design & PR is offering free website design for non-profit community groups that support and promote the Arts in New Zealand.

About our Community Projects

In order to further our mission to champion creative talent and opportunities in New Zealand, we are offering non-profit community groups the chance to upgrade or create a new website at a fraction of the normal cost.

What's free?

Our Community Projects are not charged website design and build costs. We also throw in a free consultation and communication throughout the website design project.

What do we have to pay for?

Groups taking advantage of our Community Projects are still charged at the standard rate for website and/or email hosting and domain fees (usually this is around $255 per year). These fees don't make us a profit, but are costs we incur in the running of websites and pass on to our clients.

What else do you offer?

Standard charges apply to any work outside the scope of the website project. We also offer our clients photography, video, graphic design, social media, copywriting, professional development, and a range of communications services and workshops. These services are not included in the offer of free services, which are limited to the design and build of a website.

Eligibility

Any non-profit community groups, based in New Zealand that are primarily focused on supporting and promoting the Arts or Creativity in New Zealand are eligible to apply for one of our Community Project places.

Community Project places are limited, and allocated on a first-in first-served basis and by the discretion of Ripple Design & PR.

We are offering free website design as a part of our Community Projects until 1 August, 2018.

Application

To apply for a Community Project website, please get in touch with us using the contact details below.

When you contact us, we'll want to know about your group and how you are supporting and promoting the Arts in your NZ Community.
